Campus Campaign kickoff, April 12 Lima moves from last to first place

April 1994
Vol. 1, Issue 2

Faculty and staff on the Lima Campus will kickoff the 1994 Lima Campus Campaign at a special breakfast on Tuesday, April 12 at 8-9 a.m. in the Reed Hall Dining Room. Breakfast is free and all Ohio State Lima faculty and staff are invited.

Dean Violet Meek will discuss highlights of our outstanding success in 1993 when we moved from last place in the university to first place. The 1993 campaign enjoyed an 85 percent participation by Lima campus faculty and staff and marked the first year that we implemented a high profile local campaign including campaign events, a Lima campus campaign brochure, campaign teambuilding, and one-on-one solicitations.

Carla Churchill, director of alumni and development will talk about how we can continue our commitment to the Lima campus this year and exceed our 1994 campaign goals.

This early morning spirit event will be interspersed with fun and games. So mark your calendars today and be sure to wear scarlet and gray. We expect a full turnout of faculty and staff, please plan ahead to ensure that you have work study coverage for administrative offices. See you all there!

1994 Theme: Come Grow With Us

Come Grow With Us is the theme for Lima's 1994 campus campaign. Last year our theme was Give Where You Work. And we did. 84 percent of all funds raised were designated for the Lima campus. The majority of people gave to the OSU-Lima Faculty/Staff Scholarship Fund, bringing the fund over the $15,000 level required for endowment. In other words, for the first time this year, we can start to pay out scholarship monies from the interest earned on this fund. Congratulations and thank you all. Our students will benefit greatly from your generosity.

This year our theme will be Come Grow With Us. We are asking folks to continue to designate their gifts to the Lima campus. Only this year we are putting the focus on YOU! Yes, We'd like to encourage you to designate your 1994 gift to the OSU-Lima Faculty/Staff Development Fund. This fund is designed to support professional training and development of OSU-Lima employees. With sufficient income this endowment could become a meaningful source of revenue to expand faculty and staff career goals. Here's a chance to write your own ticket. Please give generously this year to fund # 524219. Thank you.

Pleased with the agricultural motif in this year's OSU-Lima Campus Campaign slogan "Come Grow With Us", Q. Dookie (Associate Professor Agronomy) nonetheless wonders if "grow" was technically the best word.

Faculty and staff rise to the challenge

In 1993 faculty and staff gifts netted a record-setting $5,386,865 with OSU Lima leading the pace at 85% participation! Gifts from the Lima campus were $10,333.00 with $8,676.50 designated to Lima. "The Campus Campaign is a chance for us to give where we work - to further enhance our service to the community that has answered our call for support. . . . Can we, who are part of this great university, do any less?" challenged Dean Meek.

National program to improve science education in the schools

Several OSU-Lima science and education faculty members are working with the National Center for Science Teaching and Learning (NCSTL) to improve the teaching of science education in the schools. They are Dr. Mark Kleffner, assistant professor of geological sciences, Dr. John Sasser, assistant professor of education, theory and practice, and Peggie Stubbs, lecturer in education, theory and practice. Dr. Violet Meek, dean and director, and Dr. Phillip Heath, associate dean head the administrative team. OSU-Lima education graduate, Rose Stechschulte is project assistant. The primary goals of the NCSTL are research, development, and dissemination of information to educators, policy makers, and the public regarding the improvement of science education. It is funded by the Office of Educational Research and Improvement, U.S. Department of Education.

Activities and projects to-date have involved cooperation between OSU-Lima faculty, teachers from Lima City Schools and surrounding counties, and representatives from local industry, especially BP. The Lima campus has been involved with partnerships between junior high teachers, as well as workshops and conferences. Area schools participating in the program include Lima's North Middle School and Irving Elementary School, Cory-Rawson Middle School, Hardin Northern Elementary School and Bowling Green Junior High School. Recently, a national consultant in partnerships in education from the United Kingdom visited the Lima campus and participated in sessions ranging from a working meeting with county science teachers to a roundtable discussion with OSU-Lima faculty and representatives of Lima's Adopt-A-School program.

Dr. Heath coordinates one of the five focus areas of NCSTL. The principal theme of this area is the effect of partnerships between business and industry and elementary and secondary schools on science educational improvement. Currently a proposal is being developed which would link studies of partnerships and recommendations for effective partnerships with studies in the United States, United Kingdom, and Europe. OSU-Lima campus would be the location for this initiative.

Patron tickets at $25.00 each will have the donor's name listed in the program.

OSU Men's Glee Club in Lima, April 10, 3:00 p.m.

Dr. Jim Bode, associate professor of philosophy and a board member of The Lima Area Food Bank is coordinating a performance by the 100 man OSU Men's Glee Club April 10 at 3:00 p.m. in the Lima Civic Center on the Town Square. This award-winning singing group is directed by James Gallagher and has traveled extensively throughout the United States and to England and Wales. The Glee Club captured the top prize at the International Music Eisteddfod in England in 1990. Over 130 choirs from 32 countries competed in the singing festival. The local performance is sponsored by the Lima Area Food Bank. Tickets cost $5.00, adults, $3.00, children and are available from Dr. Bode or from The Lima Area Food Bank, the Civic Center box office and Gifts of Joy. All proceeds from the performance will go to feed the hungry of Allen County. Mark this date on your calendar, the whole family would enjoy!

OSU-Lima hosts Mid-West conference on race relations, April 20-21

Sixty government officials and community leaders from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky will gather on the Lima campus, April 20 and 21 for the first U.S. conference on creating community-wide dialogue on race relations.

Participants at this mid-west conference will learn about the successful grassroots programs on race relations that have taken place in Lima and Springfield, Ohio, and Grand Rapids, Michigan. The conference is sponsored by Ohio State Lima, the City of Lima, and the Study Circles Resource Center of Pomfret, CT. For information contact Dr. Carol Fasig at 221-1641, ext. 255.

Wellness activities April 19 -22

The Lima campus Student Activities Office and the Athletics Office will sponsor "Healthy Balance," four days of wellness events, for students, faculty, and staff. Healthy Balance is an attempt to encourage our college population to care for their bodies and minds.

Activities will include an Interactive Health Fair and evening Health Break on Tuesday. Walking Routes and presentation on Healthy Eating on Wednesday, presentations on Diabetes and High Blood Pressure and open Aerobics session on Thursday and Outdoor finale of games, line dancing and food on Friday. Watch for a schedule of events in your mailbox. For more information contact Carole Enneking, ext. 414, or Rob Livchak, ext. 281.

College For A Day

The OSU-Lima and LTC Admissions Offices will host a joint "College For A Day" program (CFAD) on April 26, 27, 28 and 29. CFAD provides high school Juniors and Seniors the opportunity to visit the campus, attend classes, and highlight the academic programs available. A maximum of five students per class are permitted and 9 and 10 a.m. classes are the only ones involved.

Seminar for Secretary's Day

Secretaries, assistants, and support staff be sure to attend this action packed, entertaining event. Topics are: "Procrastination - That's My Bag!" and "Crime Wise - What the Criminal Hoped You Would Never Learn."

Ms. Connie Leckrone from TIME OUT will be the speaker. It will be held on Wednesday, April 27 from 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. at the Lima Best Western. Cost is $29 and registration must be turned in to CED by April 20, 1994.

Dean Meek to speak at Governor's Challenge Conference April 15

OSU-Lima Dean, Dr. Violet Meek, Lima Mayor, David Berger and St. Paul's A.M.E. Pastor, Dr. James, H. McLemore will present highlights of the "Can't We All Just Get Along" study circles program on race relations to The Governor's Challenge Conference, April 15 in Columbus. The conference will feature the City of Lima and its successful initiative for combating urban concerns.

Ohio State Lima assisted the City of Lima in developing the program under the direction of staff member Dr. Carol Fasig, director of continuing education. OSU-Lima faculty members, Dr. David Adams, Dr. Roger Page and Dr. George Handley are conducting evaluation studies.

According to the conference literature "Lima's success with the program has been nationally recognized as an example of what can happen when religious, business, educational and other community organizations engage in meaningful dialogue about one of the most important issues facing our communities." Mayors, chamber of commerce presidents, police chiefs, safety directors, educational officials and leading minority community representatives from across the state will attend the day-long event.

Calling all faculty

Do you have a favorite subject you would like to teach as a continuing education class in the 1994-95 academic year? If so, the Department of Continuing Education would like to hear from you. Call Dr. Carol Fasig at 221-1641, ext 255.
